Russia Thinks It is Hatred of Her, Cleverly
Masked Under Philanthropy.

LONDON, January 21.—A correspondent at Ragusa sends a long dispatch respecting the formidable resurrection which has broken out against the Austrian rule in Herzegovina. He says: "Herzegovina is rising. The focus of the insurrection is in the district which was the scene of the late uprising against the Turks in 1878. Insurgent bands are forming in the mountains near Nevisinjo, Gatako, Guljovoca, Bilek and Trebinje. The warlord of Zubor on the borders of Krievia has burned their homesteads and killed the insurgents under the well known guerrilla chief Vukalovich, and the

The movement is stated to be a roughly national one. The matches insurements is "Dachau," the name of a serious engagement was fought between Matsko and Bielek, the result of which the Austrians are endeavoring to conceal. It is reported that they were repulsed.

It is also reported that the Austrians reported yesterday at Trieste, to be against the base of Austrian operations against the insurgents. The plan of the campaign seems to be, by driving a mile or two from Trieste, to take possession of the Krievan Bielek, to separate the Krivian from the Herzegovinian bands.

PERSECUTION OF JEWS IN GERMANY.

LONDON, January 22.—The Lord Mayor, in consequence of a requisition, signed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Bishop of London, Gloucester, Manchester and Oxford, Cardinal Manning, Prof. Davidson, Mr. Morley, Prof. Jewett, Matthew Arnold, Lord Elcho and the Earl of Shaftesbury, has called for a public meeting at Mansion House on February 1st, to consider a declaration of opinion on the

The Journal De St. Petersburg announces that agitation is carried on under the mask of philanthropy, it has its own spring in a feeling of hatred toward Russia and in displeasure with which the politicians view the excellent relations existing between Russia and England which has existed since the accession of Gladstone. The Journal declares that the accounts of the pogroms are malevolently exaggerated. The Government is considering legal measures in regard to Jews the Journal says the foreign press not to influence the Russian Government already bristling with difficulties.

PARIS, January 22.—A resolution passed by the Committee on the Revision of Bills which, although apparently voting a partial revision of the constitution, does not satisfy the cabinet, as it not only fails to provide for the insertion of the de la loi system, but also implies that the rights of Congress are sovereign and unlimited. Several papers condemn the hurry and confusion of the terms in the resolution.

PANIC ON THE PARIS BOURSE.

PARIS, January 22.—The Union Générale made a statement of its affairs and caused an examination of its books so that it could not cause a large sum to the authors of the panic. The Union Générale is the broker of the Bourse, but that still more from the dealings with the P. Ouse. This financial establishment make advances to the Union on the majority of the stockholder's certificates. Settlement on the new shares is postponed for two months. It is affirmed that the Union will now be able to pay

A Baltimore Philanthropist.
BALTIMORE, Md., January 22.—
Baltimore, President of the National Farmers and Planters' Bank, has formally proposed to the City and City Council to establish and endow a free library for the benefit of the whole city, at a cost over $1,000,000, provided the city should appropriate an annuity of $50,000 forever for the support and maintenance of the library. In answer to his proposal, the City Council has written a letter to the Mayor, saying he had already, in pursuance of his plan, contracted for the erection of a new school building on his Mulberry street property, at a cost of about $200,000, which will be completed in the summer of '84 at a cost of $225,000. This will be set to the city, and he will give

Additional $83,000 on the condition mentioned. He proposes a Board of nine trustees to be incorporated for the management of the Pratt Free Library. No salary or officer is to be appointed or re-
